

We pass the secret of making good wine
from generation to generation.

The best of three generations

SGJ stands for Siegbert, Gerold, Josef – the traditions behind this wine are based on passion and quality coupled with experience. The passion for wine making has united our family for over three generations – my grandfather Joseph, my father Gerold and I, grandson and son Siegbert. The family tradition exists since 1936 and is carried on today as in the past with great enthusiasm. Wine is for us not only pleasure, but a vocation! The focus of our work is ensuring the excellent quality of our wines.

Our Wines

■ SGJ Pinot Blanc dry

This Pinot Blanc is characterized by a fine, fruity bouquet, a blend of ripe, yellow-fleshed pear, quince and peach with pineapple aromas, and an invigorating, very slight acidity. The pale-to-bright-yellow color in the glass is just as delicate as the scent.

■ SGJ Blanc de Noirs trocken

“Blanc de Noirs” is the French term for a white wine vinified from red grapes, as is the case here. An invigorating aroma of apple and citrus flavors. The flavor is reminiscent of gooseberries and a very slight hint of strawberry. The taste is delicate, creamy, fresh, and lively with an elegant, stimulating acidity.
